

JOB 38:22

"Have you entered the

STOREHOUSES OF

SNOW?"

EVER THINE HOME®

EVER THINE HOME®

Have you ever considered where the wintry white mix comes from?

God tells Job that He has storehouses of snow.

- Why does God want Job to know this truth?
- What might that kind of storehouse look like?
 - a backyard storage shed?
 - enormous grain silos that house rice in southern states?
 - equally giant wheat silos found across the Midwest?
- Are God's storehouses entirely different?
- Ask your kids to sketch a picture of one of God's storehouses full of snow.

Meditate this week on our God who is so powerful that He even houses snow to dump with flurried delight at the sound of His voice. Consider how that same God comes near enough and cares deeply enough to tell Job this in His loving voice.
